

AHAthat Plugin 1.0

Introduction :

The purpose of this plugin is for you to put compelling evergreen content from the AHAtat platform on your site. The registered AHAtat user can specify a specific AHAbook, an AHAlibrary, or a category of content to share on any site they want (HTML, PHP, Wordpress, Social Media, etc.).

Features :

- Allows the user to place AHAmessages anywhere on third party sites.
- Gives the ability for the visitors to your site to share AHAmessages from your site to Twitter, Facebook, and LinkedIn.
- Displays AHAbooks from an AHAlibrary, Category, or a single book in Ascending Descending, or Random order.
- Allows the user to modify the AHAmessages box by applying height, width, positions, font size, and color from AHAtat theme settings.
- Allows the user to track social media sharing records of AHAbook.

The screenshot shows the AHAtthat.com website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the AHAtthat logo and the tagline 'Authoring — Marketing — Sharing'. Below the navigation bar, there are several menu items: 'My AHBooks', 'Activate View', 'Explore All AHBooks', and 'AHBlaster'. The main content area features a 'Create New AHPage' button. Below this button is a dropdown menu labeled 'My AHPages'. The form contains two input fields: 'Website Name' and 'URL of the website the AHPage will be viewed on.'. A red arrow points to the 'Website Name' field with the label 'Enter your website name'. Another red arrow points to the 'URL' field with the label 'Enter Your Website URL'. A 'Submit' button is located at the bottom of the form.
